Subject: Urgent and Confidential Advice to National Assemblies

---

6 March 2008

To: National Spiritual Assemblies

CONFIDENTIAL

Dear Bahá'í friends

We are writing urgently to advise that our e-mail letter dated 28 February regarding Covenant-breaker activity on Facebook was not intended for circulation amongst the believers. The advice explicitly requested each National Spiritual Assembly "to determine the necessity and most appropriate manner of discreetly informing believers of this situation in consultation and with the assistance of the Counsellors." The importance of avoiding the creation of undue anxiety or curiosity amongst the friends was also emphasized.

Most unfortunately, due to a few instances of the guidance not being followed, copies of this sensitive communication have been circulated on the Internet. Those National Assemblies who are yet to take action in the matter, in consultation with the respective Counsellors, are advised not to distribute copies of the 28 February or this e-mail, in any form, outside the membership of your institution.

With loving greetings,

Matt Weinberg
